Ingenico appoints Pierre-Antoine Vacheron, who succeeds Cyril Malher as Chief financial officer

Neuilly sur Seine, March 30, 2009 - Ingenico announces today the appointment of Pierre-Antoine Vacheron as Executive Vice President, in charge of finance and administration. He succeeds Cyril Malher who will pursue his career outside the group.

Philippe Lazare, Ingenico Chief Executive Officer, said: "Ingenico and I would like to thank Cyril for his commitment, his important contribution to the company's financial recovery and the integration of Sagem Monetel. We wish Cyril a lot of success in his future career."

We are delighted to welcome Pierre-Antoine Vacheron, a talented and recognized professional, to our executive committee. I fully trust him in his ability to help me pursue our on-going efforts for a profitable development, building on his track-record and professional experience."

Pierre-Antoine Vacheron, 43 years, began his career in 1994 as administrateur civil at the Treasury of French Ministry of finance, before joining EADS in 1998. Pierre-Antoine Vacheron held different positions within EADS group, including Vice-President mergers and acquisitions, group deputy general counsel, and eventually Senior Vice President and Chief financial officer of EADS Sogerma Services. In 2005, he was appointed Chief financial officer of Alstom Marine. In 2006, he joined Etam group as group Chief financial officer and head of IT. He graduated from Ecole Nationale d'Administration and IEP business school in Paris.
